RE: I have a question regarding entry requirements for a given course at the University of Oregon

2 messages

University of Oregon Admissions <admissions@uoregon.edu> 16 May 2024 at 21:36
To: thankiaryan14@gmail.com

Hello Aryan,

Thank you for your email and interest in the University of Oregon! We do provide weight in our recalculation of GPA for students, for example AP, IB, A levels are given a higher weight for their difficulty. We do not have a requirement for students in terms of the exact courses you would need to complete and there is no minimum GPA to apply to specific programs.

I hope this answers your questions!

Sincerely,

Ashlee Fulop (she/her/hers)
International Admissions Counselor
+1 541-346-1394
Schedule a Zoom or phone call

From: "A T" <thankiaryan14@gmail.com>
Sent: Thursday, May 16, 2024 4:30:29 PM
To: "Office of Admissions" <admissions@uoregon.edu>

Hello
Hope you are well, and many thanks for your previous emails and aiding me with my questions.
I had a question on whether or not the entry requirements for each individual course at Oregon reflect that course's academic demand and academic difficulty. I.e, students with the grades stipulated in the entry requirements for a given courses are suitable for that course's academic demand and level of difficulty.
This is the case in universities in the UK. I would like to know if the same applies elsewhere.
Regards
Aryan
Sent from Outlook for iOS

University of Oregon Admissions <admissions@uoregon.edu> 17 May 2024 at 17:00
To: thankiaryan14@gmail.com

Hello Aryan,

This is correct. That doesn't mean there is no difference in difficulty for reach academic program. Some programs naturally will require more credits and be more challenging.

Sincerely,

Ashlee Fulop (she/her/hers)
International Admissions Counselor
+1 541-346-1394
Schedule a Zoom or phone call

From: "A T" <thankiaryan14@gmail.com>
Sent: Friday, May 17, 2024 7:35:30 AM
To: "Office of Admissions" <admissions@uoregon.edu>

Hello
However, this "no minimum GPA requirement" does not mean that there will be no variance between programs in terms of academic difficulty?
Just because there is "no minimum GPA requirement" for a program does not mean that programs are all exactly the same in terms of academic difficulty
I.e, regardless, you will find variance in academic difficulty from program to program. For instance:
The level and depth of knowledge of anatomy, physiology and pharmacology is higher for a degree in Medicine than a degree in Nursing
Regards
Aryan
Sent from Outlook for iOS

From: University of Oregon Admissions <admissions@uoregon.edu>
Sent: Thursday, May 16, 2024 10:36:42 PM
To: thankiaryan14@gmail.com <thankiaryan14@gmail.com>
Subject: RE: I have a question regarding entry requirements for a given course at the University of Oregon

[Quoted text hidden]